

Art in Review; Paul Lee

By HOLLAND COTTER
Published: December 8, 2006

Reservoir

Massimo Audiello

526 West 26th Street, No. 519, Chelsea

Through Dec. 16

Not to exaggerate the comparison, but it is possible to see the small assemblages in Paul Lee's first New York solo show as heirs to Robert Rauschenberg's early sculptural "combines" of the 1950s. The work of both artists takes debased found objects -- junk -- as primary material, and uses that material to create layered, enigmatic meanings. A big difference is that a homoerotic content suppressed in Mr. Rauschenberg's assemblage is the primary content of Mr. Lee's.

Many of the show's small sculptures are clusters of half-crushed beer or soda cans, each wrapped with a photograph of a young man's face in place of a label. On the gallery floor, a lighted blue lightbulb is nested among lumps of coal. A red bulb, attached to the wall, serves as a rack for a towel. Other towels hang, spread out, nearby. Their geometric color patterns make them look like soiled, frayed abstract paintings, but also like semaphore flags, each with a different message.

Gay coding, through dress, language and behavior, has long been a protective necessity, a cultural binder and a source of pleasure, in art no less than in life. Mr. Lee, born in London and in his early 30s, explores such coding, and gently prods its mechanisms without fully exposing and demythologizing them. He gives us the props associated with certain erotically charged environments -- back rooms, baths, parks -- but also preserves a quality of hiddenness, of mystery.

The gay liberation movement gave art and artists new options: before the late 1960s, subterfuge had been a necessity in art; after, it became a controllable and complicated choice. Mr. Lee's work is about that choice. HOLLAND COTTER

E-MAIL

PRINT

SAVE

SHARE

Circuits E-Mail

Sign up for David Pogue's exclusive column, sent every Thursday.

Sign Up

See Sample | Privacy Policy

What's Your 2008 Credit Score?

Excellent	750 - 850
Good	660 - 749
Fair	620 - 659
Poor	350 - 619
I Don't Know	????

Find out instantly!

MOST POPULAR

E-MAILED BLOGGED SEARCHED

1. Obama Walks a Difficult Path as He Courts Jewish Voters
2. Teaching Boys and Girls Separately
3. Cultured Traveler | Frank Lloyd Wright Homes: Overnight With Frank Lloyd Wright
4. Op-Ed Contributor: My Forbidden Fruits (and Vegetables)
5. Findings: The Advantages of Closing a Few Doors
6. Free Lunch Isn't Cool, So Some Students Go Hungry
7. Buffett's State of the World: There's Folly in Wonderland
8. Op-Ed Contributor: A Card-Carrying Civil Libertarian
9. Facing Default, Some Walk Out on New Homes
10. David Brooks: Remembering the Mentor

Go to Complete List »

Ads by Google

what's this?

Sponsor a Child in India

For $30/month, you can save a life. Call toll-free 1-877-87-INDIA
www.indiapartners.org

Will you help a CHILD?

Donate Your Car: Even 24 Hr Pick Up. Tax Deductible!

Donate Your Car Free 24-Hr Pickup. Tax Deduction!
www.OutreachCenter.com

Coffee Exposed

A shocking secret coffee co's don't want you to know
www.coffeefool.com

School popularity affects girls' weights

Also in Health:

- Coping With the caveman in the crib
- Under the influence of ... music?
- When doctors become patients

RELATED ADS

what are related ads?

- » Tsunami Relief Cardiff
- » America Tsunami Relief
- » Tsunami Relief
- » Tsunami Relief Fund

INSIDE NYTIMES.COM

BOOKS »

A Life of the Soldier—
Cartoonist Bill Mauldin

MUSIC »

Britten's Tale of the Haunted Misfit

OPINION »

Bloggingheads
Video:
Democrats as Wimps

REAL ESTATE »

Winning That One in a Million Housing Lottery

OPINION »

Op-Ed: My Forbidden
Fruits (and Vegetables)

IN THE REGION »

The Office as Architectural Touchstone